

PRINTING TIPS FOR CARDS

GREEN LEVEL HORSESENSE - TRAIL SAFETY

Stuff Happens Cards are designed to print on plain 8.5"x11" white card stock.

This file contains 3 pages of cards. Print all 3 pages, then cut them into 4 cards each, which will give you a total of 12 cards in the set.

The first page of cards is an optional "back side" for the cards. You can just print the card pages and leave the back side of each card blank – but we like the name of the card set on the back to help keep things organized.

If you choose to add the back side, print 3 copies of that back page, then set those pages in your printer so that the remaining pages will print on the reverse side. When you cut them apart, you should have the name of the card set on the back of each card.

REMINDER: Make sure your printer settings for the PDF file are NOT set to "shrink to fit"!

Your show horse Princevonkerfluffle has never been ridden outside the ring,
but you want to take him on a trail ride with a group of barn buddies.

After traveling for several hours,
your normally placid school horse Pocket Rocket unloads from the trailer as if his tail was on fire. He's snorting and pawing with nervous excitement, and when you mount,
you find that he has no brakes.

You thought you put your helmet in your trailer, but can't find it anywhere — and everyone else is tacked up and ready to hit the trail.

Your horse Twinkletoes is barefoot and you're planning
to take him on a two-day ride
through the mountains.

You arrive at the trailhead parking area in 30-degree weather and find that all the water hydrants are shut off to prevent them from freezing.

You and your barn buddies want to try out a new trail — but none of you has been there before so you don't know what to expect.

Just as you and your horse Puddlejumper start to canter across an open space on the trail, a heavy rain begins. You hear thunder in the distance.

The trail on which your group is riding has a section that requires you to ride on a two-lane country road for a short distance, and then cross to the other side.

You and your mount Conquistador are veterans of many long trail rides, and you want to let him gallop at the next open section of the trail. However, your riding buddies aren't all that proficient.

You and your riding buddies are moving along at a steady trot in a hunter pace. Ahead of you on the narrow trail is a large group of ambling beginner riders.

You and your horse Beentheredonethat are leading a trail riding group on a forest trail that winds through areas with overhanging branches, fallen logs, big rocks and the occasional rabbit hole — and it's your job to keep everyone safe.

Your pony Scuuuuseme has just left a present of fresh manure by your neighbor's mailbox while you were riding around the neighborhood.
